External technical assistance offered by NBM to other central banks and foreign authorities

As part of its continuous efforts to strengthen international cooperation and share experience and best practices, the NBM provides, upon request, external technical assistance to other central banks and relevant foreign authorities. This initiative underlines the NBM's commitment to contribute to the creation and maintenance of the framework for the exchange of monetary and financial knowledge between the relevant institutions. Through the provided technical assistance, the NBM aims to strengthen bilateral relations with its international partners.

The list of external technical assistance projects offered by the NBM can be accessed here [1].
