NBM organizes a high-level roundtable: „The role of a central bank in modernizing society - challenges in emerging economies"

The National Bank of Moldova (NBM) in partnership with institutions representing civil society working in the field of economic analysis organize on Wednesday, 7 April a roundtable on „The role of a central bank in modernizing society - challenges in emerging economies".

The event comes in the context of approaches and standards accepted by central banks and will bring together, organized with the NBM leadership, high-ranking participants of the National Bank of Romania, the International Monetary Fund, the World Bank, the European Union, economic policy experts of the Republic of Moldova.

Thus, during the round table, there will be debates on the macro-monetary balance as an important premises for the development of emerging economies, the best practices of European countries in strengthening the financial and banking sector, the premises created by the Covid-19 crisis to extend the inflation targeting in emerging countries, the role of the NBM in the context of the pandemic crisis, the transparency and quality of shareholders in the banking system of the Republic of Moldova and of topics of public interest.

"The National Bank of Moldova is fulfilling its main role, ensuring the maintenance of low and stable inflation - a real challenge, especially for emerging economies," said NBM Governor Octavian Armașu. „The measures taken by the NBM in this regard are possible in conditions of independent activity of the central bank and, along with successful reforms to strengthen the capacity of our country's banking sector, have an important socio-economic significance, designed to improve the quality of life."

The event is organized in online format (on ZOOM platform) and will be broadcasted live on:
